

Meeting Notes for 2017-10-30

Members present: Richard Cunard, Braxton Cuneo, Andrew Emmott

- Andrew began the meeting by asking what the team had done in the past week. Richard answered that the team had completed the first draft of the requirements document.
- Andrew inquired about what specific features the team included in the req. Document. The team went over the list of basic, very general features that have been listed.
- Andrew suggested that for the final draft, the team should include some specific 'brush' or sculpting features. When asked by the team how concrete these should be (as the nature of the project is fairly general.) Andrew said that it would be sufficient to equate them to features in commonly understood programs (such as MD paint.)
- Andrew then explained the policy of submitting TeX documents, specifying that the project Github should have the document along with a functional makefile. When asked by Richard if he would be compiling the document on flip, Andrew stated that he would be doing so on his own computer, but would consider himself responsible for maintaining dependencies and packages himself.
